

Map of Australia's national parks

We thought that a large six-coloured map of Australia's national parks and related reserves, which appeared recently at the editorial office of Ecos, would be of interest to many of our readers.

Entitled 'Australia's Nature Conservation Reserves', this new map shows more than 500 national parks and other nature conservation reserves covering at least 1000 hectares in area. One hundred and fifty of them are of more than 10 000 hectares.

The map has been produced at a scale of 1 : 5 000 000 by the Division of National Mapping (NATMAP) from its 1 : 1 000 000 scale Nature Conservation Series. It also embraces material published or specially supplied by the Australian National Parks and Wildlife Service and the equivalent government organizations in all States.

Initially it is available only in an unfolded form measuring 925 × 840 mm, suitable for wall displays. Later it will also be available as a folded map in an attractively coloured cover as part of NATMAP's Australia 1 : 5 000 000 Map Series.

The unfolded map may be purchased for $2.10 from NATMAP sales offices in Sydney, Melbourne, Queanbeyan, and Dandenong, or ordered through NATMAP agents.
